

One of the prettiest pieces of machinery ever seen in Nashville is the steam engine manufactured for us by the Nashville Manufacturing Company, and which propels our power presses. This engine is placed in the basement of the building. Immediately over it, on the first story, are placed our beautiful power presses, in charge of Mr. G. Y. Johnston, the best pressman who has ever been employed in Nashville. On the first story, also, are our counting-room and a room where we are happy at all times to see our business friends.

The second story of the building is entirely occupied by our book and job printing office. The three large rooms in this story are filled with the largest and best assortment of job printing materials ever gathered under one roof in the Southwest, Our varieties of type are almost endless. Here, also, are our handpresses, including a beautiful card press, capable of printing 1500 cards per hour. These rooms, as well as the general oversight of the whole office, are in charge of Capt. GLENN, a gentleman of great capacity and experience, and who, with his large corps of assistants, is turning out for our customers, with unequalled promptness, book and job work which we are not afraid to compare with the best Philadelphia work.

In the third story, under the charge of P. G. WARREN, the types for our newspaper are set. In this story, also, Langdon & Co., have a room where they set the types for the Banner of Peace and the Pearl, the press work of which we do for them. We also print for this firm the Sentinel, a temperance paper. And in this story also, the editors have a corner room, high above the dust and noise of the city, where they indite sound, wholesome, and radical democracy, and feel proud of possessing the largest and most complete printing office in the Southwest, and in publishing one of the best newspapers to be found anywhere.

THEATRE.

The beautiful and affecting play of Jane Shore was well presented at the Adelphi last night. Mrs. FARREN sustained the principal character in a highly respectable manner. Mrs. F.'s voice is not good. but her conception of characters and general style of acting justly entitle her to rank high in her prc-

To-night we have Knowles' play of Loce, and "Wanted 1000 Milliners"-a very fine bill.

F ERRATA .- In the communication in yesterday's paper on the subject of the State Penitentiary, one or two important errors occurred. The appropriation required at the present time should have been put down at $20,000, instead of $2,000. In one of the concluding paragraphs it is stated that "there are persons who would fain remove the Penitentiary from the State," &c. For remove read lease, RECORDER'S COURT-NOV. 16 .- OWEN McCARTY

COMMERCIAL.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 18. Corros.-Cotton is still held at irregular figures. We heard of but one sale yesterday, and that at $8 50. Our readers will bear in mind that our present quotations are for sales to fill orders, and not on speculation .-From a letter, dated New Orleans the 12th, we learn that the present crop of cotton will fall short of that of last year. The receipts at all the ports amount to 127,500 bales against $7,467 bales same time last year.

Covros. Our semi-weekly report closed upon a heav market, but on Wednesday buyers came forward more freely than at any previous period of the season, and some 10,000 bales were disposed of without any material change in prices, though with rather more steadiness and firmness for the grades ranging from Middling to Middling Fair, which were the descriptions most in request. On Thurs-day the enquiry was renewed to a fair extent, and the sales reached about 5500 bales. There was also a fair demand yesterday, and some 5000 bales changed hands: making a total for the past three days of 20,500 bales, and for the week of 30,600 bales, taken for England, France, Spain the Continent and the North. The demand has run mainly upon what are termed clear Cottons, classing from Strict Middling to Middling Fair, and for these descriptions the market is firmer, owing to their comparative scarcity; but the business of the last few days has also included some low lists, and we are enabled to resume quota tions, for Inferior and Ordinary qualities, which for some time past have been without any fixed market value, from the entire absence of demand for them. It will be seen that the figures range unusually low, as compared with the bel
